AYER'S Hair Vigor

restores, with the gloss and freshness of youth, faded or gray hair to a natural, rich brown color, or deep black, as may be desired. By its use light or red hair may be darkened, thin hair thickened, and baldness often, though not always, cured.

It checks falling of the hair, and stimulates a weak and sickly growth to vigor. It prevents and cures scurf and dandruff, and heals nearly every disease peculiar to the scalp. As a Ladies' Hair Dressing, the VIGOR is unequalled; it contains neither oil nor dye, renders the hair soft, glossy, and silken in appearance, and imparts a delicate, agreeable, and lasting perfume.

MR. C. P. BRICHER writes from Kirby, O., July 3, 1882: "Last fall my hair commenced falling out, and in a short time I became nearly bald. I used part of a bottle of AYER'S HAIR VIGOR, which stopped the falling of the hair, and started a new growth. I have now a full head of hair growing vigorously, and am convinced that but for the use of your preparation I should have been entirely bald."

J. W. BOWEN, proprietor of the McArthur (Ohio) Enquirer, says: "AYER'S HAIR VIGOR is a most excellent preparation for the hair. I speak of it from my own experience. Its use promotes the growth of new hair, and makes it glossy and soft. The VIGOR is also a sure cure for dandruff. Not within my knowledge has the preparation ever failed to give entire satisfaction."

MR. ANGUS FAIRBAIN, leader of the celebrated "Fairbairn Family" of Scottish Vocalists, writes from Boston, Mass., Feb. 6, 1880: "Ever since my hair began to give silvery evidence of the change which fleeting time procureth, I have used AYER'S HAIR VIGOR, and so have been able to maintain an appearance of youthfulness—a matter of considerable consequence to ministers, orators, actors, and in fact every one who lives in the eyes of the public."

MRS. O. A. PRESCOTT, writing from 18 Elm St., Charlestown, Mass., April 14, 1882, says: "Two years ago about two-thirds of my hair came off. It thinned very rapidly, and I was fast growing bald. On using AYER'S HAIR VIGOR the falling stopped and a new growth commenced, and in about a month my head was completely covered with short hair. It has continued to grow, and is now as good as before it fell. I regularly used but one bottle of the Vigor, but now use it occasionally as a dressing."

We have hundreds of similar testimonials to the efficacy of AYER'S HAIR VIGOR. It needs but a trial to convince the most skeptical of its value.

A Queer Narrative.

In the early part of the present century a large cargo of slaves, direct from the Arabic-speaking regions of northern Africa, was secretly landed near Yorktown, Va. This ship-load of human chattels was delivered to awaiting agents. Eight hundred intelligent Mohammedan, light-skinned Africans were distributed among the planters of Eastern Virginia. Fierce as untamed tigers, these wild followers of the prophet of Mecca gave the slave-owners more trouble than any other eight hundred bondsmen south of Mason and Dixon's line. Many of them escaped North, and their descendants live in Fayette County, this State. Among them are the Blues, Jacksons, Muncys, Palmers, Manaways, and others whose thin lips, high foreheads, aquiline noses, intellectual capacity, and splendid physique stamp them at once as superior in every respect to the full-blooded negro. A Philadelphia Times correspondent has found among these people the old home of the great false prophet of Soudan. His story is this: Among the escaped Mohammedans were George Johnson and wife. George's real name was Beyash-el-Azwah. He was a Sheik and priest of the order of Ilami. For several years he lived in the mountains near Connells-ville, but, fearing recapture, went to Canada. In 1850 he returned to Pennsylvania and settled at Uniontown. In 1854 he removed to Brownsville, and subsequently to Pittsburgh, where he died in 1877, at a very advanced age. In 1830, while at Connells-ville, his son Thomas was born.

At the age of ten Thomas had learned the Koran from his father, and could repeat hundreds of pages. No turreted mosque reared its massive walls; no bearded muezzin called the ex-slave and his family to worship; but Beyah-el-Azwah never forgot "There is but one God, and Mohammed is his prophet," and in a land of Christian strangers secretly adhered to the faith of his fathers. In 1849 Thomas Johnson drifted to California, to return to Uniontown two years later. In 1853 he went to Paris and joined the French army. He was sent to Algiers. At the close of his term of service he joined a caravan, and crossed the great Desert of Sahara southward into Soudan. For several years he lived among the natives of that almost inaccessible region. With his almost perfect mastery of the Koran, and his superb knowledge of the arts of civilization, especially of war, he forged to the front as a leader. In 1862, when he heard of the war of the rebel lion, and was fired with an ambition to help free the slaves of the South, he wrote a long letter to President Lincoln, offering to recruit a thousand Arab zouaves for the Union army, if the United States Government would furnish transportation. The letter got into the newspapers, and was published as a great joke. He returned just as the war closed. Yet no more enthusiastic lover of the Union cause stood upon Pennsylvania avenue in the city of Washington on the day of the last grand parade of the Federal armies than the tall, red-capped Sheik Johnson, fresh from the wilds of Africa.

After calling on the Turkish Minister he visited Connells-ville, Uniontown, Brownsville, then Pittsburgh, to see his father. In August he went to Egypt. There, as is the duty of all Mohammedans, he made a pilgrimage to the tomb of the prophet at the sacred city of Mecca. Returning to Soudan he acquired a greater influence than ever over the semi-civilized inhabitants of that extensive country, and claimed prophetic powers. As time rolled on his wealth and power increased, and when the English invaded Egypt he proclaimed himself El Mehdi, or the last prophet Allah shall send to conquer the enemies of Islam and rule the supreme over the world. While Arabi Pasha was suffering defeat, rumor had it that the false prophet was achieving extraordinary victories and slaying thousands of his foes. To such a person all Mohammedans will kneel. According to Mohammedan belief El Mehdi is to come with great signs and wonders just before the judgment day. He will appear on a milk-white charger, accompanied by an innumerable army of bearded Mussulmans, all mounted on snow-white stallions. He must be a visible ruler with power and victory on his side. If he manages to spread the report that he is killing Jews, Christians and pagans by thousands he may be accepted most willingly by the Moslems. The defeat of Arabi, who claimed to fight for the cause of Islam, may cause all Mohammedans to turn to Johnson as their coming prophet. It may be added that one of the false prophet's hundred wives is a native of Fayette County, an octroon from Uniontown. She accompanied him to Mecca and to Africa in 1865, and is said to be the mistress of his harem. She, too, is a direct descendant of the Arabs of the slave-ship of Yorktown. She still writes to her relatives in Pennsylvania.

The Income.

A Baltimore man who bought him a farm two or three years ago was recently approached by a friend who had some money to invest, and who asked: "Can I buy a pretty fair farm for $15,000?"

"Yes, about that figure."

"And I'll want to lay out about $10,000 in improvements, I presume?"

"Yes, fully that."

"And I can invest another $10,000 in blooded stock?"

"I think you can."

"And $5,000 more in grading, filling up, creating fish-ponds, and so forth?"

"Well, you may get through with that sum."

"That's $40,000; and now let's figure the income."

"Oh you don't need pencil or paper," said the victim, as a shadow of sorrow darkened his face. "The income will be about $3 for turnips, $2 for potatoes, $5 or $6 for corn, and a bull calf or two at $3 a head. To save time, call it $25. I'll see you again in a day or two. Maybe I've forgotten something which will add a dollar more. Morning to you."—Wall Street News.

How a Whale Breathes.

The wind-pipe does not communicate with the mouth; a hole is, as it were, bored right through the back of the head. Engineers would do well to copy the action of the valve of the whale's blow-hole; a more perfect piece of structure it is impossible to imagine. Day and night, asleep or awake, the whale works his breathing apparatus in such a manner that not a drop of water ever gets down into the lungs. Again, the whale must of necessity stay a much longer period of time under the water than seals; this alone might possibly drown him, inasmuch as the lungs cannot have access to fresh air. We find that this difficulty has been anticipated and obviated by a peculiar reservoir in the venous system, which reservoir is situated at the back of the lungs. —Frank Buckland.

"—Frank," said an affectionate mother the other day to a promising boy, "if you don't stop smoking and reading so much, you will get so after a while, that you won't care anything about work." "Mother," replied the hopeful, leisurely removing a very long cigar, "I have got so now." —N. Y. Ledger.

An Apocryphal Story From Mobile.

Mobile (Ala.) Register.

It was in the good old times of Mobile, when the Whig and Democratic papers were thundering at one another, and the public was anxiously looking for gore. The able editors, in the meantime, used to meet surreptitiously every night and have a quiet game of cards. One day the Democratic editor got sick and couldn't "go for" his hated contemporary. He, therefore, dropped him a note advising him of the fact and asking him to write the article himself. This the Whig editor at once did, and pitched into his own paper and himself in fine style to the extent of a column or more. This was the controversy kept up and the public bamboozled.

ROSSER & McCARTHY,
PUBLISHERS AND PROPRIETORS.

Go get the lazy boys and girls
And give their ears a jerk,
Or, with a shingle teach them how
To quickly go to work.
Their trifling, good for nothing ways
Should surely be put down,
Or else they'll stop the Knitting Works
And drive it out of town.

LENT begins next Wednesday.

CIRCUIT COURT adjourned yesterday.

THE Virgie Lee, Katie Stockdale and Bostona passed down to-day.

R. A. REDMOND, of Tollesboro, has been adjudged a lunatic and sent to Lexington.

THE Percy Kelsey, the first of the Pittsburg coal fleet, passed down early this morning.

AHAB HAMILTON, one of Brooksville's dissipated citizens, was found frozen to death recently.

MR. WM. CLARK has opened a grocery store at his meat stand, corner of Limestone and Second streets.

CAPT. FITZGERALD has received orders from military headquarters to have his company in readiness to respond to a command to move.

COL. W. W. BALDWIN has sold about eight hundred mules during the last two weeks. His residence is soon to be connected with the city by telephone.

MR. T. C. CAMPBELL and Mr. E. L. Worthington have formed a co-partnership in the practice of the law, and will attend promptly to all business entrusted to them. See card printed elsewhere.

MAJOR JOHN R. ALLEN, who will have command of the State troops says he does not anticipate any serious trouble in Carter county during the Neal and Craft trial. He thinks the soldiers will be on duty about a month.

MRS. GEORGE FAULKNER, who lives near Bentonville, was recently granted a pension of $2,500. She died on the day a check for the money was received and it was accordingly returned to the department at Washington.

MESSRS. W. B. MATHEWS & Co., in anticipation of a very large business this season, are making many improvements at their mills. The machinery has been thoroughly overhauled, the buildings repaired and a supply of water for all purposes provided from the public reservoir. A large cooper shop, for the manufacture of tobacco hogsheads is in course of construction on Second street near Limestone bridge. The firm will be in the best condition this season to attend to the demands of their large and growing trade.

THE Western Tobacco Journal says: Few cities of its size manufacture as many cigars as Maysville. More than one-seventh of the cigars produced in Kentucky are manufactured in that city. This is strange, too, as one would conclude that, being situated in one of the leading white Burley counties—Mason—that the manufacture of plug tobacco would more readily attain a foothold, as the stock can be easily obtained, and at advantageous terms (though plenty of seed leaf can also be readily obtained from the Miami Valley, at a short distance from it, on the other side of the river), and communication can be carried on by rail and water.

THE knitting factory, which has promised to be one of our most important industries, we very much regret to learn, is to be removed to Cincinnati, in consequence of the difficulty encountered in procuring the help needed to conduct the business properly. The young men who are at the head of this enterprise have managed it with remarkable intelligence and good judgement, and have already built up a prosperous trade which is rapidly increasing. The news of this loss to Maysville we are sure will be received with deep regret. We hope the company may overcome the difficulties referred to and decide to continue their business in this city.

PERSONALS.

Points About People Here and Elsewhere.

Mrs. Lydia Rowland died at Vanceburg, on the 30th ult.

Mr. Wesley Oder, of East Maysville, who has been very sick, is much better.

Miss Mamie Fitzgerald has been confined to her room for several days by illness.

Mrs. M. A. Bidleman, who has been visiting her sister, Mrs. John C. Lovel, of the Fifth Ward, for the past two weeks, has returned to her home at Vanceburg, Ky.

Death of Stephen L. Grant.

Mr. Stephen L. Grant, an old and respected citizen of this county, who had been ill for several months past, died on the 31st ult., at the age of about sixty-five years. He was the Assessor and Deputy Assessor of this county for four years and proved to be an efficient and conscientious officer. In private life he was upright and useful and commanded the confidence and respect of all who knew him. He will be buried at the Maysville cemetery to-morrow morning at ten o'clock.

MR. J. C. OWENS bought lately in Bourbon county, of J. A. Howerton, his crop of tobacco, about 30,000 pounds, at 12 1/2 cents. Mr. Alex. Marshall bought Joseph Mitchell's crop at 16 cents all around, delivered on the cars in bulk. The crop amounted to about 15,000 pounds.

THE East Maysville end of Second street has received a much needed scraping.

COUNTY POINTS.

MILLWOOD.

Dr. J. J. Cook has plenty of riding to do at this time.

A protracted meeting will begin at Helena soon conducted by Rev. Sims.

Miss Mattie Stewart has returned from a month's visit to Montgomery county.

W. O. Cord will start on a business trip to Covington and Cincinnati this week.

Mr. Drago, who has been living on the farm of L. H. Long for some time, will move the 1st of March to the farm of C. A. Ring.

A candy pulling was given at Helena last week for the benefit of the Sabbath school scholars. The little folks enjoyed themselves finely.

L. C. Holland has bought property out near Fox Springs and will move his family there soon. It is anticipated he will regret it as there is plenty of work at this place to keep a mechanic and blacksmith busy.

HOUSEHOLD WEALTH.

It seems a breath of heaven,
Round many a cradle lies,
And every little baby brings
A blessing from the skies.

Some of the Mayslick boys want to know something about Wm. Sims, the log man. He can be found at Henry Garrison's, near this place, either engaged in stripping tobacco or playing with the baby. If the Mayslick boys want to employ their time in splitting rails they can secure a large lot of good mauls at W. O. Cord's.

Our community has some persons in it who are always ready to talk about people's faults, and whenever a morsel of slander is given them they roll it from tongue to tongue until a mountain is made out of a mole hill. When a person commits a wrong once some one is ready to spread it and get others to help give it a kick. If we would all keep the beams out of our own eyes we would have no time to pull moles out of the eyes of others. Believe half you hear and give people credit for all the good they do is a good maxim. How few follow the teachings of the Divine Book, to give a word of cheer to the unfortunate, to lend a helping hand to the needy and look always to the bright side of the failures of our fellow-men. But why is it that the reverse side is taken and believe every word they hear about others. But such is life and why it is we cannot tell. Our world needs a general reformation on that subject.

FIDELITY.

FERN LEAF.

Vache Worthington is happy. It is a girl. C. K. Sallee has moved to the Miles Wilson property. Charles T. Haughey is able to go about the house again.

Miss Amelia Wood is spending a few days with Miss Carrie McAtee.

The boys are busy fencing in this vicinity. They know how to put them up, too.

D. A. Finch sold his fine coach horse a few ago, realizing the handsome sum of $245.

C. W. Knight is able to walk about his room. His physician thinks that one eye is lost.

John J. Thompson visited the Queen City last week, taking some fat hogs to market. They sold for $6.60.

John Wallingford bought of Roger Owens, a tract of land lying near the waters of "Trimel," on which he intends building soon.

The Cooking Club met at Mrs. Sallee's last week, at which the party were all masked. I am Billy Ball, who are you? Please inform us in your next the state of Mr. Ball's health, as the young lady whom he took to supper thinks he is seriously affected with the heart disease, and is very anxious on his account.

Thos. Worthington and mother have moved to their future home at Shawhan Station, K. C. R. R., where Tom has purchased a farm. We are sorry to see them leave us, but hope that they will make many new friends and acquaintances, for the people of old Bourbon will find no better neighbors within her boundary than Tom or his mother.

Neal and Craft.

Lexington Transcript.

Neal and Craft are forbidden by their attorneys to see or converse with any reporters. They are evidently in great terror as to their proposed journey to Carter County. Instead of going out in the jail yard they keep to their cell, which is the middle one, next to the one formerly occupied by Ike Turner. They have read enough in the newspapers to know that they are, if possible, in greater peril than ever before. They may be heard praying and singing at all hours of the day and night. Indeed it is difficult to tell when they sleep, for the noise of their devotion appears continuous. They sing from the gospel hymns many of the pieces which they have learned by heart, and the unctious which they force into the songs would surprise the leader of an old-fashioned class meeting. In their prayers they may be said to be particularly agonizing. The burden of their prayers is that the impending danger may be averted. They ask the Lord in the most eloquent manner to guard them safely through their trial, to bring confusion to their enemies, and to give to them long life and happiness. They couple with every petition, however, the earnest request "if it is the will of God that their lives shall be sacrificed that they may be taken to the bosom of Jesus, where they may sing His praises forever." A gentleman who overheard them one evening last week states that it is impossible to hear their piteous pleadings without a feeling of emotion being awakened; even with the belief in their being guilty of the awful crime charged to them. The prisoners, it is stated, do not express the confidence in the present excursion that they have heretofore done. They have to make a desperate effort to appear cheerful in order to make a show of confidence.

Fashion Notice.

Fawn-colored silk stockings, worn with slippers of dark red kid or velvet are the affectation of the moment.

The elegant simplicity of street costumes becomes more noticeable each day, elaborations in dress garnitures being left for home wear and full-dress occasions.

Crenelated edges make a dressy finish to basques and house-jackets of cashmere. They are either bound with silk or velvet welted with a cord, or finished with a bias fold of the same material as the basque.

Gauze Balbriggan stockings are imported for wearing next to the flesh, inside colored stockings of silk or of wool. They keep the silk stockings neat and prevent the woolen hose from irritating sensitive flesh.

Panels of brocaded materials of plain fabrics, richly decorated, are as fashionable as ever. No style is so calculated to advantageously display the elegant hand embroideries, wide passementerie trimmings, or applique bands which frequently border the handsomest of these panels.

One of the prettiest additions to dark dresses is a combination of velvet, gold braid, and white lace, made with velvet for a standing collar trimmed with three rows of gold braid, with the ends tied in a bow knot in front. Below this is a fan-bow of white lace resting low on a velvet plastron, and the fan ends of the bow are pointed upward to touch the collar.

Pearl.

Pearls are perhaps the most valuable of all the offerings of animate nature, and are the results of the efforts of the bivalve to protect itself from injury. A parasite bores into the shell of the pearl bearer, and when felt by the animal it immediately fortifies itself by covering up the spot with its pearly secretion; the parasite pushes on, the oyster piling up until an imperfect pearl attached to the shell is the result. The clear oval pearls are formed in a similar way, only in this case a bit of sand has become lodged in the folds of the creature, and in its efforts to protect itself from the sharp edges, the bit becomes covered, layer by layer, and assumes naturally an oval shape. This growth of the pearl, as it is incorrectly termed, can be seen by breaking open a $500 gem, when the macro will be seen in layers resembling the section of an onion. The Romans were particularly fond of pearls, and according to Pliny, the wife of Caligula possessed a collection valued at over $3,000,000 of our money. Julius Caesar presented a jewel to the mother of Brutus valued at $20,000, while the pearl drunk by Cleopatra was estimated at $100,000. Tavernier, the famous traveler, sold a pearl to the Shah of Persia for $550,000. A $20,000 pearl was taken from American waters in the time of Philip II. It was pear-shaped, and as large as a pigeon's egg. Another, taken from the same locality, is now owned by a lady in Madrid who values it at $30,000.

Fresh-water pearls are often of great value. The streams of St. Clair County, Ill., and Rutherford County, Tenn., produce large quantities, but the largest one was found near Salem, N. J. It was about an inch across, and brought $2,000 in Paris. The pearls from the Tay, Doon and Isla rivers, in Scotland, are preferred by many to the Oriental, and in one summer $50,000 worth of pearls were taken from these localities by men and children. Mother-of-pearl used in the arts is sold by the ton, from $50 to $700 being an average price. The last year's pearl fisheries in Ceylon alone realized $80,000, to obtain which more than 7,000,000 pearl oysters were brought up.—N. Y. Evening Post.

A Festive Goat.

A goat while browsing among the fragrant garbage-boxes in Gansevoort street recently came upon a pail of beer, where it had been placed by some workmen until they should be ready for dinner. Before they had been aware of the goat's presence he had treated himself to the beverage, taking it all at a draught. Its effects were not immediately apparent, but very soon the remarkable antics of the animal began to attract attention. He bounded into the air as if to find out how many times he could crack his toes together before touching the pavement, and then he went through a series of extraordinary gyrations that would have been worth a fortune for any show. The sidewalk became too narrow, and he butted indiscriminately at the ash-barrels and at the legs of passing pedestrians, who hastened to get out of his reach. The crowd that soon collected was under the impression that the goat had escaped from some Masonic lodge-room. After numerous abortive attempts to stand on his head, the goat stretched himself at full length on the pavement, limiting his performances to an occasional roll and kicking his feet spasmodically in the air. By this time a policeman had arrived, and while he was considering in a perplexed way how to dispose of a subject that showed no reverence for his club a little old Irish woman, evidently the owner of the goat, came rushing up in great anxiety. She belabored the animal with a stick and upbraided it in the severest terms on seeing its condition, to which the goat's only response was an effort to rise and butt his mistress into the gutter. At last, with much difficulty and by the persuasive use of the cudgel and the aid of the police officer, the goat was safely housed.—N. Y. Tribune.
